

HERMETIC WIPE CONTAINER

ABSTRACT

A hermetic storage system for storing wipes is provided. The hermetic storage system may include a flexible container, a first member, and a second member configured for holding the wipes. The first member is coupled to an open first end of the flexible container and the second member covers an aperture defined by the first member. The hermetic storage system is configured to provide a hermetic seal when the second member is releasably engaged with the first member.